

Burned, Blamed, and Rebuilt: A Story of Hope and Happiness, A Story of Azam Khan

Azam Khan was in Karnataka when violence broke out in Khargone. Despite his absence, his shop was looted and burned, and an FIR was falsely filed against him. "I wasn't even here," he said. The violence erupted when two religious processions clashed, leading to destruction and a demolition drive that disproportionately affected Muslims. Azam, a chauffeur and shopkeeper, lost his livelihood.

His shop had been targeted before due to his identity. Miles2Smile stepped in, raising funds to rebuild and restock his shop. "Thank you for rebuilding my life," Azam said, with a broad smile on his face.
